

Essential Element 10: Quiz

Essential Element 10: Quiz

1. A study in a developing country includes healthy participants. What should be considered when preparing the protocol?

(Check all that apply)

- No payment for participation should be offered.
- Participation should be cost neutral to the participant, including no lost income or unreimbursed expenses for participation.
- The ethical implications of any direct payments to study participants should be addressed in the protocol.
- Compensation should be considered first before addressing other essential elements of the protocol.
- Justification for any payments to participants beyond cost reimbursement should be included in the protocol.

2. Concerns about undue inducement may arise

- When study participants receive significant financial compensation (beyond expenses) when participating in research
- If poorer participants are enrolling in research solely because of the financial benefit.
- If a decision about what would amount to undue inducement in one setting is applied a very different setting without careful consideration
- All of the above
- None of the above

Submit

Click here to return to the course home screen